

Republicans. Thus, it is pointed out, instead of three or four members who may be counted upon to oppose all reactionary policies, even those they bear the stamp of administration approval, there will be seven or eight of the group now represented by Borah, La Follette, Norris, and occasionally Lenroot.

Stormy Career.
This, combined with the expected democratic gain of a few members in the upper chamber, is designed to give the next congress a stormy career throughout.

Aside from the great reduction of republican strength in, and possible loss of control of the house, chief interest centers upon the gains democrats are expected to make in certain highly important and pivotal states. Foremost among which are New York and Ohio, the latter commanding the greater attention.

The election of the democratic ticket in Ohio, headed by Senator Allen Pomerene and Victor Donahay, for governor, against the republican candidates, Representatives Simon D. Pess, for the senate, and Carmel Thompson, for governor, would have a far-reaching effect upon the situation in 1923, it is declared, to say nothing of the immediate blow it would be considered against the Harding administration.

Likewise the race in New York between Governor Miller, the republican candidate, and ex-Governor Al Smith, the democratic nominee; and Senator Calder, republican, against Dr. Copeland, democrat, is placed in the same category.

Democratic victories in those states would throw strong light on the 1924 presidential campaign, it is said.

A strong indication of the outcome is found in the attitude of both party leaders. Democrats are confident of electing Senator Pomerene and ex-Governor Smith and republicans are equally confident of electing Governor Miller and Senator Calder. The results, also, democratic predictions far outstrip those made by republicans. Incidentally, a side light on the New York situation is found in the betting, which favors the democratic candidate for governor by odds of two to one, practically.

The Contest in Ohio.
Realizing the democratic trend in Ohio republicans have put forth a desperate effort, hoping to salvage some part of the 500,000 plurality registered in 1920. And mainly because it is the home state of President Harding and would be looked upon as somewhat of a slam on the chief executive if the party ticket were defeated there, the state has been the center of the campaign. At President Harding's instigation, it is said, practically every member of the cabinet has taken to the Ohio hustings for the preservation of the party.

Tabulation Attempts.
Tabulation attempts gave the probable republican majority from fifteen to thirty, a margin so slim that the final count may wipe it all out. Should this happen the democratic control would lie between ten and fifteen, it is asserted.

Observers declare the maximum majority for republicans could not exceed 40, which considering the uncertain quality of some of the new members, is not enough, it is said. It is also said to be extremely doubtful, for example, if with such a grouping the president could put through the ship subsidy, which means that if Tuesday's voting runs according to those figures there will be stupendous effort to get the measure out of the way before March 4, as well as all other administration legislation.

It probably involves the calling of the extra session of congress, which various senators from all sections of the country have been trying to get Mr. Harding to forego in order that the house may have two additional weeks to function.

Seventy or more republican congressmen will be turned out by Tuesday's election, but there are few names of prominence among them. They, in most part, were the accidents of two years ago, swept into congress by the Harding tidal wave, and now left stranded by the recession of that great disturbance, which restores normally democratic districts to their old affiliations.

The most conspicuous prospective victim among them is Representative Andrew J. Volstead, author of American Prohibition. While wet in the country will throw up their hats at his elimination; the fact is that the prohibition question had nothing to do with it, and his successor, if there be one, will be just as dry as he is. Because of their fear of the moral effect of so conspicuous a figure in the dry movement, the Anti-Saloon league has thrown a goodly sum into the fight. Their efforts to save the veteran Volstead have been equalled only by the activity of the president in Ohio, and with seemingly no better luck, it is said.

Dr. C. J. E. Hale, independent, endorsed by the democrats, who is opposing the dry leader, defeated him in a previous election, but lost out on court proceedings, and his strength this time is said to be largely due to the Minnesota feeling that Volstead was not a good enough sport to stand rrimming.

Prohibition in Front.
Prohibition has come to the front as an issue in only a few states, chiefly New Jersey, Ohio, Illinois, New York and Missouri. In the latter state Senator Joseph P. Kamp, democrat, is expected to overwhelm his republican opposition because of the sharply drawn wet and dry lines, Reed being inclined to wetness. The same is doubly true in New Jersey, which is pulling off a liquor fight altogether, the democratic candidate, Governor Edwards, being in favor of making the whole country as wet as the Atlantic ocean, with his opponent, Senator Frelinghuysen, as dry as a chip, albeit, he admits a cellar.

The Anti-Saloon league is knitting Senator Pomerene to the liquor question in Ohio, and Governor Miller is receiving their backing in New York against his democratic opposition. Illinois, having no senatorial race, is without the heated prohibition aspect of the other states named, the issue being confined to local districts. Observers will watch with interest the returns from these states, as a good portion of the candidates are wading the fight along these lines.

For, it is said, much of President Harding's chances for re-nomination depends upon the outcome of his home state.

Ohio being one of the largest and most pivotal states, if the president is able to hold it in the republican colum, his nomination will be assured; otherwise his leadership may be destroyed.

The admittance of presidential politics in the present situation cannot be overlooked, it is said. If Pomerene wins in Ohio he is certain to become a "White Hope" for democracy. And if Al Smith is elected governor of New York again he will loom largely upon the democratic political horizon two years from now.

If the election shows thumbs down on the Harding administration by denying his party a majority in the next house, there is certain to be a fresh crop of progressivism which will insist upon party recognition with themselves in the saddle, it is asserted. This will be considered the only means of saving the party in 1924, according to their leaders.

Republican leaders seem convinced that they not only will hold their majority in the senate, but will increase it to twenty-four. Unless they gain more heavily in the breaks it is difficult to follow their predictions, it is said. Thirty-three seats are to be filled, Pennsylvania electing a full and short term senator. At present 17 republicans and 15 democrats occupy these seats, the vacancy caused by the death of the late Senator Watson, of Georgia, making the thirty-third. Seven of the democratic seats—those of McKeller, of Tennessee; George, of Georgia; Hanson, of Virginia; Trammell, of Florida; Stephens, of Mississippi, who was nominated to succeed Senator Williams after his voluntary retirement; Adams, of Arizona, and the seat of Senator Culberson, of Texas, for which Mayfield and Peddy (both listed as democrats) are contesting—are not in the debatable class.

The same is true of six of the seventeen republican seats, including Reed, of Pennsylvania; Pepper, of Pennsylvania; La Follette, of Wisconsin; Johnson, of California; Green, of Vermont, and Lodge, of Massachusetts, who is conceded a winner. Senator Hale, of Maine, has already been elected, the national election in that state coming sooner than the regular date observed elsewhere.

In Doubtful Column.
This leaves nine democratic and eleven republican seats which may be placed in the doubtful column. The republicans have chances of defeating democratic senators Gerry in Rhode Island; Hitchcock, Nebraska; Reed, Missouri; Jones, New Mexico; King, Utah; Pittman, Nevada; Pomerene, Ohio; Kendrick, Wyoming, and Wheeler, the democratic nominee in Montana, who was chosen following the retirement of Senator Myers.

In order for the democrats to gain control of the senate it would necessitate for them to hold what they now have, gain the eleven republican doubtful seats as well as two from the undebatable column. It is highly improbable that such will occur, all agree.

At the moment the democratic seats which seem to be most seriously threatened are those of Gerry, of Rhode Island, whose opponent is former Governor R. Livingston Beekman; King, of Utah, whose opponent is Ernest Bamberger; Pomerene, Ohio, whose place is sought for by Representative S. D. Fess, and that of Reed, of Missouri, where B. R. Brewster, republican, is being supported by many leading democrats.

Senator Hitchcock. Nebraska, who is being fought by Ralph B. Howell, republican, appears just now to be leading. Senator Pittman, democrat, whose opponent is Charles Chandler, is expected by his friends to slide through, and Senator Kendrick, of Wyoming, is slightly in the lead of Representative Frank W. Mondell, who is the republican leader of the house.

This Fight Is Close.
Senator Myers, democrat, of Montana, is not a candidate for re-election, his party having nominated Burton K. Wheeler. The latter is being opposed by Carl W. Ririeck and the fight is close between the two. This has been heard in Washington regarding the contest between Senator Jones, democrat, of New Mexico, and the republican opponent, Stephen B. Davis, Jr.

There is a group of senate seats held by republicans now, in serious doubt. This is true of that of Senator Townsend, of Michigan, whose democratic opponent, former Governor W. N. Ferris, is running against him. The republican incumbent, Du Pont, of Delaware, whose opponent is Thomas F. Bayard, of Senator France, of Maryland; of Senator McLean, of Connecticut, whose opponent is Thomas W. Spillane; of Senator Poindexter, of Washington, who is having the fight of his life with former Representative C. C. Dill, of Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, whose opponent is Governor Edward I. Edwards; of Senator Kellogg, of Minnesota, where Jennie Shipstead, the farmer-labor candidate is drawing heavily from him, giving Mrs. Anna D. Olsen, the democratic candidate, an excellent chance to win.

The same is true of the contest, also those in North Dakota and West Virginia, are close with possible democratic victories.

Close Contests Predicted In The Eastern States.
New York, November 6.—(By The Associated Press.)—Close contests were indicated tonight in several of the senatorial, congressional and state elections in eastern states.

In the senatorial fights interest was centered on the lively campaigns in Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Maryland. New Hampshire does not hold a senatorial election this year, and Maine had its election last September.

The fight in the Bay State has attracted widespread interest because the veteran senator, Henry Cabot Lodge, republican leader in the senate, is a candidate for re-election. His democratic opponent is William A. Gaston, Boston lawyer.

The contest in New Jersey, where Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen is a candidate for re-election against Governor Edward I. Edwards, has been enlivened because of the wet and dry issue, the governor favoring the wets.

Senator William M. Calder, of New York, has been through a spirited campaign with Royal S. Copeland, health commissioner of New York, with the tariff as the leading issue.

In Connecticut George P. McLean, republican, has engaged in a strenuous fight for re-election to the senate against Thomas J. Spillane, and in Rhode Island Senator P. G. Gerry, democrat, contested with former Governor F. Livingston Beekman.

The seat of Senator Joseph I. France, republican, of Maryland, has been sought by William C. Bruce in a vigorous campaign.

Pennsylvania will elect two senators, the republican incumbents, George Wharton Pepper and David A. Reed, being candidates for re-election. Pepper is the incumbent of the term of the late Boise Penrose, and Reed is filling the unexpired term of the late Senator Crow.

A general election campaign in New York and Pennsylvania have attracted national interest. In the Empire State Governor Nathan L. Miller, republican, is a candidate for re-election, his opponent being ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith. This campaign has almost eclipsed all other contests in the point of popular interest.

In Pennsylvania Gifford Pinchot, who focused attention by wresting the republican nomination from the regular organization, is opposed by the democratic candidate, being ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith. This campaign has almost eclipsed all other contests in the point of popular interest.

WEATHER CONDITIONS GOOD IN MIDDLE WEST.
St. Louis, Mo., November 6.—(By The Associated Press.)—Weather conditions throughout the middle west and Mississippi valley—with the exception of the extreme north—were reported tonight as favorable for tomorrow's election.

Main on the prairies of the Dakotas and snow in the black hills have tended to make the weather virtually impassable and threaten to cut down the county vote. Republicans and democrats in South Dakota both claim, as a result, they will have an advantage over the farmer members of the non-partisan league. The league candidate for governor is a woman, Miss A. L. Leach, of Dakota.

At the supreme court, by an eleven-hour decision, today ordered the name of Earle B. Mayfield, the democratic candidate for United States senator, printed on the ballots. The word was sent to all county clerks, but some doubt exists whether all can comply in time. Instructions by his political opponents to the printer, printed here, however, the name of his republican opponent, George Peddy, has been barred from the ballot because he was not nominated by a regular party convention.

In Ohio a vote-buying scandal has broken, with the arrest of one man and issuance of warrants for twenty others, charging with the attempting to buy votes of absentee voters of like county.

Last minute meetings, speeches and the usual final hour activity of voters, featured the closing campaign throughout the middle western states.

Following the old political maxim that it costs nothing to claim everything, most of the campaign managers made their final communications so all-embracing as to be worthless in determining what they actually believe.

GEORGIA VOTERS WILL CAST BALLOTS TODAY

or, the democratic nominee. Watch out for it."

Mr. Jordan, in discussing the telegram, said Captain Phelps was within his rights in distributing the ballot containing his name instead of that of Major McGregor.

The so-called "counterfeit ballot" is not counterfeit," Mr. Jordan said. "There is no official democratic ballot and no official ballot of any kind. The voter has the privilege of voting any ticket he wants to vote and every candidate has the privilege of printing and circulating any ticket he desires."

Attorney General George M. Naper, at the request of Governor Hardwick, recently issued a ruling in the case of the independent candidates who wanted their names to appear on the ballot. Under this ruling, it was held that names of independent candidates could not be placed on the democratic ticket, but it was held further that any candidate could circulate his own ticket. It was under this ruling that Captain Phelps circulated his ticket, according to the manager.

State Senate Contest.
In the fourth senatorial district a hard fight is being waged for the seat from that district by James T. Vocelle, of Camden, democratic nominee, and C. S. Arnaud, former state game and fish commissioner, who is running as an independent candidate.

Another constitutional amendment to be submitted in the election Tuesday created a new senatorial district out of Berrien, Cook and Lanier counties. This amendment was passed by the legislature at its last session. Considerable interest in this measure exists in the counties affected by its provisions.

MCGREGOR'S FRIENDS CIRCULATE SPEECH.
Friends of Major C. E. McGregor, democratic nominee for pension commissioner, today are circulating the significant opinion of Hon. T. E. Massengale, a fellow countryman, in placing Major McGregor's name in nomination before the recent Macon convention. It follows:

"Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: This large assembly is a unique institution in democratic conventions—but after looking over this large audience of patriots and loyal Americans I know the flag of democracy is in safe hands. As it is written, 'She who rocks the cradle rules the world,' and from this date no man will be elected United States senator, congressman, governor, representative who is morally and politically unclean."

"I arise to ratify the nomination at the point where the democratic battle line is drawn here and confederate veteran who at the age of 30 enlisted in the confederate army, the 13th Georgia regiment, commanded by Colonel Francis S. Bartow, of Savannah, and later in the first of Savannah, where young McGregor resided."

"During his four years' service our young hero fought on a hundred bloody battlefields, and when he surrendered with the gray of Johnston at Greensboro, N. C., April 9, 1865, he wore the uniform of a major."

"In 1869 coming to Warrington he edited 'The Warrington Clipper' during the reconstruction period, when federal bayonets were at the throat of every man and woman in Georgia, and courageously he was not intimidated and he acted—that a company of federal soldiers were stationed in Warrington to intimidate him, which they never did, and he pursued his course until the clipper was driven from the state."

"Praised as a loyal."

"My fellow countrymen, if it were in my power I would write in liquid fire upon every mountain peak in Georgia, 'He was loyal to his country and his people to his friends.' I would write on every rock-riddled hill, 'He was loyal to his friends and his country.' I would write on every quivering leaf in the forest, 'He was loyal to his country and his people.' DE VALERA DENIES RUMORS OF PEACE

Victory for "Republic" or Utter Defeat and Extermination Are Declared Only Alternatives.

Dublin, November 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—A long statement, issued as a "dail communique," and signed by Eamon de Valera, as president, announced definitely that there is no truth to the rumors of peace negotiations between his party and the Free State government.

The principles which the republicans are defending, de Valera says, are by nature irreducible and not open to compromise. Victory for the "republic" or utter defeat and extermination are now, he declares, the only alternatives.

COCHRAN'S DEATH WILL BE PROBED BY CORONER'S JURY

An inquest into the cause of death of Claude Cochran, 40, a barber, who was stricken suddenly ill in the shop at 225 Marietta street Monday afternoon, will be held over the body Tuesday morning at the chapel of Harry G. Poole.

According to the diagnosis of Dr. Eugene Weatherly, interne at the Grady hospital, the man died from an overdose of sodium nitrate. This was prescribed for him by a physician who had been treating him for kidney trouble, it is said.

According to other barbers employed in the shop where Cochran worked, he was taken suddenly ill and became very nauseated and dizzy. He fell to the floor in a few minutes unconscious, and did not regain consciousness before dying.

Dr. Weatherly, who acted as ambulance surgeon, administered first aid treatment in the barber shop, after which he was rushed to the hospital, where every known method was employed to revive him, but he died within an hour after reaching the hospital.

Cochran lived at 82 English avenue. He is survived by a widow and two children.

Fifth Ward Citizens Appoint Committee On School Building

Further steps were made Monday night in the investigation by citizens of the fifth ward concerning the revision of the original plans and specifications of the English avenue school, at a meeting held at the school auditorium.

W. H. Johnson, city warden, was principal speaker. Upon announcement by a speaker that all school appropriations would cut 15 per cent by the city authorities, Mr. Johnson said: "The money is available or the contract would have never been let, and nothing less than full compliance with the terms in the original contract will satisfy us."

A committee was appointed by J. F. Bowden, who presided over the meeting, to interview city authorities and ascertain why the plans had been revised. The committee is composed of L. L. Hildebrand, chairman; Rev. W. M. Albert, Mr. Timmons, Bob Paul, J. E. Bowden and J. T. Mitchell.

The citizens will meet again Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at the school.

"THEATER GUILD" WILL BE HEADED BY MRS. JACKSON

At the regular meeting of the Little Theater guild, at Cable hall Monday night, new officers were elected to serve for the coming year, according to the recommendation of the nominating committee.

Mrs. Earl Jackson was elected president; Peter Maguire, first vice president; Parker Hord, second vice president; Mrs. Roger Wilson, director; Miss Beatrice Hamlett, secretary and treasurer; Miss Margaret Horton, chairman membership committee, and George Bush, chairman house committee.

Following the business meeting a dramatic rendition of scenes from "The Music Master" was given by Mrs. Duane Gould. Miss Annabelle Horne, dramatic director for the Girls' High school, who has recently returned from the west where she has been studying methods of Little Theater guilds in California and elsewhere, gave the guild members many valuable suggestions.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. Clarence Bemis.

last 18 months the schools had increased in attendance of over 12,000, and an added increase was estimated for the coming year when the kindergarten class and the eighth grade will be added to all grammar schools.

The progress of the Atlanta building program was cited by Dr. N. L. Englehart, who stated that since the bond issue a year ago, that nine buildings were in the course of construction. He compared this record with Baltimore, whose bond issue is two years old and only one building is being constructed.

Other speakers were Walter A. Sims, A. Ten Eyck Brown, W. W. Gaines, W. A. McCalley, Jr., and A. C. Meixell.

William Algren, chairman of the association, presided.

Resolutions were introduced at the meeting commending Professor Sutton for his work in the educational affairs of the state, and a petition was presented the board of education recommending that Professor Sutton's salary be increased in proportion to the city than any other movement. All doubt of the possibility of securing results, as predicted by the officials and business and industrial leaders, was dispelled when in open meeting the records of other cities were cited.

ATLANTA CHAMBER WILL RAISE FUNDS

Footie Describes Work.

President Footie addressed the gathering and gave some inside information concerning the work of the body up to this time. He pointed out how the body was functioning at present, which, he remarked, brought out Henry Johnson, well known banker, an unqualified endorsement. He also pointed out the opportunities waiting for the chamber from the west where he has new interests for Atlanta—but which will have to be abandoned unless the present campaign is successful.

Whole-hearted approval of the work of the organization to date was accorded by those present, and an enthusiastic belief in the possibilities for the future was expressed. Baltimore was cited as an example of a city which had accomplished remarkable results through efficient expenditure of a liberal amount of commerce budget, and so was Miami, Florida.

John C. Knight, member of the firm of Knight & Knight, automobile dealers, having machines in Georgia and Florida, who happened to be in the city, declared that the possibilities for the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, working on the plan outlined, were not very unlike the possibilities of the Miami Chamber of Commerce a few years ago.

Success of Miami.

"When I went to Miami seven years ago," Mr. Knight said in an interview, "the population was very much below half of what it is now, and the credit for the increase is largely due to the business men of the city who supported the chamber of commerce so liberally."

"Why, down there we do not depend on memberships to support the chamber of commerce. A special tax on all tax payers provides about $50,000 a year for the body, and every penny of it is spent to the advantage of every person in Miami. Such should be the case here. A budget of $100,000 or more could be used to the advantage of every person in the city."

It is my belief that Miami wouldn't have anything like the population it has now if the business men hadn't recognized the fact that supporting the chamber of commerce was one of the best investments available from a purely business standpoint.

In opening the campaign with field work Tuesday, the chamber of commerce does so with the full support of the various civic organizations, Rotary club, Kiwanis club, Lions' club, Civitan club, and many of the workers who will report for supplies Tuesday are sent from these organizations, or secured through the organization heads by the majors or captains who will lead the march.

Following is a copy of the resolution passed by the board of directors appointing the funds now being raised:

"Resolved, That the income of the chamber of commerce should be $100,000, and this fund should be apportioned as follows:

"For expenses of industrial bureau, marketing bureau and publicity bureau, income to be apportioned pro-rata, after deduction of overhead and operating expenses. Under this motion each new department would receive over $20,000 for its purposes."

Is Needed Aily.

Officials pointed out the value of such appointment, and commented on the fact that the work of the publicity bureau would dovetail with that of the industrial bureau, providing it with one of the chief necessities for its efficient operation. The funds to be raised will mean more in the way of bringing new industries than any other one object, was the opinion expressed.

In connection with the proposed marketing bureau, it was stated that this department of the chamber of commerce would be in a large measure taken care of automatically through the increased population from new industries. However, it was pointed out that the chamber of commerce appreciated the fact that the prosperity of the state at large determined the prosperity of Atlanta, and that the funds devoted to helping the farming industry would benefit the city to as great a degree as that expended in other ways.

Foresee New Capital.

In view of the record of Memphis and in view of the work of this kind already lined up for the chamber of commerce by President Footie, it was thought not only possible, but probable that the work of the chamber of commerce for next year would show results in the form of millions of new capital invested here.

Right now, it was pointed out, is the opportune moment to begin operations which have been held up for lack of funds. Industries in Atlanta are running full blast and big concerns in the north and east are looking southward for factory sites.

"This is a dream city of Atlanta," said W. R. C. Smith, who is Mr. Footie's right-hand man in the present campaign, as he pointed to the illustration on the wall of the assembly room, "but it is a dream city which will not remain a dream if we get down to work. Count these smokestacks. Large factories you see in the Dance in Assembly Hall.

From 9 until after 10, following the informal tours of the remodeled building, dancing was enjoyed in the main floor assembly hall. Music was furnished by M. A. Cox trio, Mrs. Louise Webster, who runs the cafe, served coffee and cake to all visitors in the basement without cost to the chamber. Throughout the evening from 6 until 8 o'clock, visitors were coming and going. No attempt was made to estimate the number attending, as the official and office personnel of the organization was kept so busy there was practically no breathing time left for them.

With the close of the first day of chamber of commerce week," said President W. O. Footie, "we feel an even greater optimism than we did when the first enthusiastic meetings took place. It was our purpose to

ARREST IS MADE IN MAIL ROBBERY

Henry "Will-Shoot-a-Pistol" Williams, 22, jailed
for Daring Daylight
Theft of Mail Truck.

Henry Williams, 22-year-old negro,
known under the alias of "Will-shoot-
a-pistol," was arrested Monday afternoon by Deputy Marshal Haney on charges of theft of United States mail from a truck which was stolen
on October 16 from a place in front of the Hurt building and loaded with five special delivery parcels valued at several hundred dollars.

Williams was arraigned before United States Commissioner W. Colquitt
Carter, who remanded him to jail to await a preliminary trial on Tuesday, November 19. The negro denied that he purloined the mail-truck or that he had any connection with the theft of special delivery packages.

Postal inspectors R. H. Tomlinson and R. E. Barry, who have been working on the case since the truck
was stolen, declared they had evidence which would be produced at the preliminary trial that tended to show that Williams is the man who drove the truck away and, in addition, that he abandoned it on Randolph street.

When arrested Williams is said to have mysteriously disposed of a .45 caliber pistol which he is alleged to have carried in his pocket. According to information obtained by the officers, Williams is said to dominate a certain number of the colored section of the city, where his cohorts have dubbed him with the name of "Will-shoot-a-pistol" because of his past record which is said to have included several shooting affairs.

Search for Auto Crash in Death Of Mail Carrier

Detectives Change Theory
on Murder Weapon in Langston Case.

A thorough search for the crash
of an automobile, owned by Jim Adams, one of the three men held in jail at Fayetteville as suspects in the Langston mystery, was under way Monday by investigators, working on the theory that the wounds which caused the death of James C. Langston, Fairburn postman, could have been inflicted by a crash.

Discovery that the crash is missing was made by Detectives W. R.
Adams, W. H. Hames and Will Windsor, employed by Fairburn citizens to assist Fayette county authorities in the investigation. Adams and his brother-in-law, have admitted being in the vicinity of the killing at the time the mail carrier is thought to have met his death. Adams also is being held as a suspect, as is Charlie Walker, near whose home the body was found.

Sheriff Tom Kerlin, of Fayette county, stated Monday night that no important developments had occurred during the day. The detectives were reported to be working on clues in Fairburn.

Investigators will grill the prisoners as to the whereabouts of the crash.
It was believed late Monday.

Frost Delayed, But May Reach Here Thursday

Tuesday afternoon, and the bare possibility of a light frost Thursday morning, was the weather forecast
from the local office Monday. No extremely cold weather exists in the country at present, with the exception of a few western stations where the temperature is below freezing, and the "possibility" of frost in Atlanta
Thursday morning was as far as Meteorologist C. E. von Hermann could go in his predictions at present.

The average date for a killing frost
in Atlanta was Monday, November 6, but this fall has been very mild and not even a light frost has yet been reported. Last year at this time, besides a killing frost, several light
frosts had fallen in Atlanta.

From the local office Monday was announced the fact that a storm of considerable force was central over the upper lakes, with a trough of low pressure extending southeast to Texas, where a second disturbance was evident. The disturbance in Texas is expected to cause the showers in Atlanta Tuesday. Considerable rain was reported in the region from Texas northeast to the lakes.

"Only at some of the western stations," said Mr. von Hermann, "have we any cold weather, and these are at such an altitude that it is not surprising that temperatures below freezing prevail there even when moderately warm weather prevails in the east.
We cannot expect frost here until cold weather sets in at other points.
"However, it is barely possible and I'm taking a chance in saying it
—that there will be a light frost here Thursday morning. If it comes at all, it is very apparent now that it will be very light, and some days will pass before a killing frost can be expected."

SNOWSTORM AND BLIZZARD IN FAR WEST

Chicago, November 6.—Passenger traffic was disrupted in various parts of the far west Monday following the first bad storm of the season during the week-end. The worst trouble reported by the railroads was on the Chicago and Northwestern, which reported its trains from the Pacific coast 24 hours late.

A heavy snowfall in the far west
and a tornado in the middle west did the damage. In addition to the six lives lost in the Oklahoma service,
it was reported Monday that five lives had been lost in a 48-hour blizard in Colorado. Rear-end train collisions and heavy loss of property
and live stock were reported.

Wire communication between middle west and coast points has been greatly curtailed, as nearly all of the trans-continental telegraph and telephone wires were blown down.

The snowstorms, after taking a northerly course through Wyoming and western Nebraska, is due to arrive violently in North and South Dakota
Tuesday, according to the weather bureau here, and may become more violent in the rural districts of the north.

et, Ga., were accepted for service in

STRIKER ON TRIAL IN A. B. & N. WRECK

Tom Bradshaw Faces
Charge of Causing Fatal
Smash at Mill Creek
Last March.

Greenville, Ga., November 6.— (Special.)—Tom Bradshaw, former
A. B. & N. fireman, went on trial today in connection with the A. B. & N. wreck at Mill Creek on last March 15, in which two lives were lost.

Testimony that the wreck was not due to natural causes was offered by Investigator Roberts, of the interstate commerce commission, who investigated the wreck. He did not believe the engine jumped the rails. Harry Huddleston, assistant superintendent of the A. B. & N., said the wreck apparently was not due to defects in the engine and the tracks.
Conductor Collier, of the A. B. & N., said the train was not going at an unsafe rate on the fatal track.

Bradshaw was out on strike with other A. B. & N. engineers at the time of the wreck, which resulted in the deaths of Engineer Tom Greene and a negro fireman. Evidence that Bradshaw was in the vicinity of the wreck at the time it occurred was reported to railroad officials after the wreck.

Eighty witnesses have been summoned to the trial of Bradshaw. The trial is being held in a special adjourned session of court. The morning was consumed today in picking the jury, which is a mostly composed of farmers. The jury consists of:
G. V. Mann, J. G. Carlisle, A. P.
Fodd, W. B. Matthews, W. P. Fleming, W. C. Wood, J. L. Stephens,
H. W. Ward, Jr., W. E. Almon, Rufus
Rowe and A. R. Bowen.

Bradshaw is represented by N. F.
Culpepper, of Greenville. Solicitor-General Atkins is conducting the prosecution.

LETTERS TO CAPITAL URGE JUDGE SIBLEY His Elevation to Supreme Court Is Strongly Ad- vocated.

Washington, November 6.—(Special.)—It is ascertained here that several letters have been received by the department of justice strongly advocating the elevation of Judge Sibley to the supreme court. The letters are from the Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina and North Carolina bar associations, and from the Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina and North Carolina legislatures.

Unquestionably, however, a movement is on the way in Georgia to secure the elevation of Judge Sibley to the supreme court. Judge Sibley received in Judge Sibley's behalf.

VICTIM OF APHASIA SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Chicago, November 6.—Improvement was noted today in the condition of Howard Jayne, Monmouth, Ill., business man and former legislator, who was missing two weeks before he entered an Evanston hospital under the name of "John B. Long." Jayne's memory was gradually returning, according to hospital attaches and while his wife is still in the hospital, he is able to communicate in connection with her belief that business enemies lured him from home and that he possibly was drugged and beaten. Jayne has not yet told a coherent and complete story.

Jayne, whose resignation, prepared some time before and accepted in his absence by the directors of the Monmouth Stone company, of which he was president, apparently had more money
when he arrived at the hospital than when he disappeared on October 24.
At that time, Mrs. Jayne said, her husband only had $100. At the hospital he had $234. Whether somebody paid his expenses while he was traveling in Chattanooga and Birmingham and possibly other cities before returning to Evanston, is not known.

The hospital, followed him about and struck him. He has a contusion on the back of the head and another near the spine. Physicians, however, believe he will completely recover from the attack of amnesia which has clouded his memory.

PULLMAN PASSENGERS ROBBED OF CLOTHING

Washington, November 6.—Passengers on three Pullman cars awoke here today to find that during the night they had been robbed of not only their valuables, but in some instances of their clothes.

The cars—one from Philadelphia and two from Memphis—had been shunted to a sidetrack at union station. The thief, after thoroughly ransacking the cars, went into an adjoining unoccupied Pullman, sorted out the clothing and took away with about $20,000 in cash and jewelry, besides trousers and other articles of clothing.
Railroad officials had to supply clothing to some of the robbed passengers. They could go to breakfast, furnished at the expense of the company to those who had lost all their money.

Shop Early, Mail Early, Appeal Is Launched By Postmaster Large

A series of "shop early-mail early"
addresses was begun Monday when Postmaster E. K. Large appeared at 1 o'clock in the afternoon at the colored Y. M. C. A. and spoke before members of the Colored Principals' Normal school, and at 3 o'clock before the Atlanta Teachers' association in the auditorium of the Commercial life school.

The object of the addresses by the postmaster is to stimulate interest in early Christmas shopping and mailing of parcels so as to alleviate congestion at the eleventh hour. Mr. Large is scheduled to speak at a meeting of principals of white schools on Monday, November 13.

Austell Given Home for Life By Agreement

Heirs to Estate of Mrs. W. W.
Austell Relinquish
First Claims.

Litigation over the Austell estate,
which was begun shortly after the death of Mrs. Cora M. Austell in August, was ended in Fulton superior court Monday when a jury decided that W. W. Austell, her husband, shall have a life interest in the Aus-
tell home on Andrews drive.

On the day after the funeral of Mrs. Austell, notice to give up possession of the Austell home was served on her husband on the strength of a will which gave her estate to Harold Gray, Frank P. Gray and Wycliffe Gray, her sons by a former marriage, and Andrew Gray
Carter, a grandson.

Mr. Austell declined to vacate the premises, and filed a petition to restrain the heirs from ousting him, claiming that he had purchased the land and erected the house with his own money and had placed the name of his wife on the deeds merely for convenience.

In an answer filed prior to the hearing Monday, the heirs contended that Austell had purchased the land and erected the house and gave it to her. Before the jury reached a verdict all parties to the suit had agreed to a settlement and filed the agreement in court. Its terms responded with the findings of the jury.

Emory Entertainers Repeat Their Skit Before Large Crowd

BY HERMAN D. HANCOCK.
Playing before a large audience
at the Emory university auditorium,
the Emory university entertainers won favor in the second performance of the season last night. Tickets were at a premium and have been since the announcement that the performers were to entertain again.

Several of the skits were revised to give a newness to them and to correct any weaknesses which were found in them. Thomas Partridge, author of "Twin Beds," revised the play so that it was one of the major attractions of the program. "Twin Beds"
won the approval of the entire audience at the last showing. John Knox, as leading man in the skit,
is one of the best on the Emory stage.
Lloyd Chapin also plays an important role.

"The Postmaster Am Done Broke Loss" was again a favorite with Austin, the Emory university postmaster, portraying the postmaster's fate.

"Violinists" with G. L. Talley, carried its usual amount of support.
Others who appeared in major parts in the skits were Raymond Sisson, the Emory student, H. M. Tollison, Elbert Peabody and Alton O'Steen.

Chicago.—W. W. Wheelock today was appointed receiver of Kriebel and company, brokers. Bankruptcy proceedings were filed sometime ago and before G. L. Wheelock today began hearing in the case. Claims filed against the concern were said to total an amount between $3,000,000 and $5,500,000.

Children Bit, Woman Advises Use of Muzzle

Mad Dog Danger Is Declared Great, Even in Winter.

Calling attention to lack of enforcement of the dog-muzzle ordinance, and asking parents to keep their children away from dogs, Mrs. George S. Ober, Jr., 131 North Moreland avenue, Monday afternoon called attention to a tragic instance last week when two children and a man were bitten by a little fox terrier dog that was suffering from rabies.

The victims were L. L. Lewis, of 204 North Moreland avenue, and his 12-month-old baby girl, Alice, and a little boy whose name has not been learned. The dog belonged to Mr.
Lewis. All three began taking the Pasteur treatment Saturday.

The dog was electrocuted by Dr.
Burkland, of the Atlanta Humane society, the head being carried to the state capitol where Dr. Sellers declared it was suffering from rabies.
The animal's head was then sent to Emory university for the benefit of the medical students.

Several dogs in the neighborhood of Mr. Lewis are reported to have been bit.

Mrs. Ober called attention to the fact that her investigation developed that a large number of dogs go out in the fall and winter, and she insists that the muzzle ordinance should be rigidly enforced.

Alabama Added to South's Prestige, Says Camp

Gridiron Fans Witnessed Campaign's Most Perfect Work in New York Battle

Washington and Jefferson, Pitted Against Lafayette Machine, Furnished Thrills Galore for Football Fans.

BY WALTER CAMP.

New York, November 6.—The best football so far this season was served up to the 30,000 New Yorkers who saw Washington and Jefferson meet Lafayette at the Polo grounds and by a wonderful rally and keen strategy finally emerge victor by a single point. Victories by single point were frequent last Saturday indicating the lack of attention which coaches this season have given to the converting points from touchdowns into scores. Not less than four important games were won and lost by that narrow margin.

Syracuse had its hands full in winning from Nebraska, but the victory will help the salt city team. Alabama added materially to the prestige of the south by fighting Pennsylvania to a standstill and carrying off the game from Heisman's men.

Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Colgate, West Point, Notre Dame, Michigan, Wisconsin, Georgia Tech, Centre and Virginia Poly all had safe marks. Princeton came through with 22 points but Swarthmore showed the Tigers up by scoring 13 points. Dartmouth had a hard time beating Boston university. Illinois had a narrow squeak with Northwestern, as did Auburn with Georgia and Vanderbilt had none too great a margin with Tennessee.

Perfect Attack.
The feature of the week's play, however, was the high order of attack presented by Washington and Jefferson and Lafayette. It was not only powerful, it had all the qualities of high class deception. Every formation and in every shift by each team, there was always more than one threat and more than one outlet. The defense on both sides had to be constantly on its toes to discover the point and method of attack in the first two periods. Lafayette rolled along like a well oiled machine and as soon as the weak point in the President's defense had been located—a hole just outside left tackle—Brunner slid through it effectively time after time. Then Lafayette would switch, and with a double pass would come back through the middle of the line.

Brunner was as elusive as an eel and a powerful driver. Gasella then would take an occasional go at the shell. Brunner with his cleats heavy with mud had missed one attempt at goal after touchdown but at the time that did not appear serious.

Sew Up Hole.
After the first half the Presidents came back with instructions from Coach Neal as to how to stop that run of Brunner's. They showed at once that they had that hole outside of tackle sewed up.

They uncovered a whole bag of tricks and soon had a touchdown and goal. Lafayette braced but well concealed forward passing and a short, partly blocked kick of Brunner's brought Washington and Jefferson up well into Lafayette's goal line. After a forward pass carried the ball over and the score was tied.

Right here the Presidents earned the game by cool head work. Remembering the sticky kicking which had caused Brunner to miss his goal, they crossed Lafayette by throwing a forward pass for the necessary point and the game was theirs.

Viewing the News
By CLIFF WHEATLEY

In an interview last night with John G. Schuler, steward in charge of food preparation in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Football Patronage, the performer of this column ran straight into the information that Mr. Schuler confidently believes that "oh's and ah's" that marked his work last week will be outside Saturday when his stuff will again be on the menu.

He announced that a dish styled "Colonels and Generals" upon which he was banking a lot had been hurt to a certain extent by too much rough handling of the Generals' safe Saturday by the University of Virginia gang. However, Washington and Lee have, or has, a way of fighting back. Maybe they will succeed against the Centre Colonels. Anyway the game is bound to be watched.

Mr. Schuler is sure about a couple of his dishes. Georgia and Virginia in Athens and Tech and Georgetown in Atlanta are the affairs he believes will produce all the thrills necessary for his customers. We have an idea that Mr. Schuler is correct.

The Hilltoppers.
Georgetown has bitterly disappointed football students this season. With more veterans on hand than fell in line at the last G. A. R. reunion, the Hilltoppers have failed to make any sort of impression. This is, any sort of good impression. Their campaign had been running smoothly enough until the Quantico Marines were encountered.

Mainly because they had nothing else to say, football experts began telling us about the great strength of the Marines. But the silence that followed Georgetown's defeat at the hands of Holy Cross last week was deafening. Holy Cross is weak this year and Georgetown was generally conceded to be in for an easy victory.

However, the Irishmen look good in defeat. Grant Field, Tech's custodians don't know how good they would be in victory, for the best teams Georgetown ever put on the football field were soundly thrashed by the Yellow Jackets. The Hilltoppers have been tendered some severe breaks this season. Maybe the outfit will snap out of its losing streak Saturday.

Virginia-Georgia.
Virginia's return to form means a great game in Athens Saturday. Virginia held Princeton 5 to 9 and then began traveling around in circles. They were still in this condition when V. M. I. stepped in and trimmed the Charlottesville stalwarts. Then followed

VIRGINIA STARS WHO WILL PLAY GEORGIA

Here are four of the University of Virginia players who will be pitted against the University of Georgia Bulldogs Saturday in Athens. This team has been defeated but once this season, going down early in the campaign against the Virginia Military institute team. At the left is Captain Hall, one of the best guards in the south. The second figure is that of Benny Arnold, a halfback. The third player from the left is Blackford, a tackle, and Oppleman, halfback is fourth. Most of these men have faced the Bulldogs before and made splendid showings.

SENIORS WIN GRID BATTLE

HERMAN D. HANCOCK.
The dope ball suffered another casualty yesterday afternoon when the Emory university grid game netted the seniors a 14-0 victory over the freshmen-seniors made to shove over a total count of 20 to 0 on the freshmen. Never were games harder fought than those of yesterday. The sophomore team struggled against the superior strength of the seniors and were able to hold their opponents to a no score game.

A forward pass, Jones to Edmondson, was one of the most brilliant plays of the sophomore team. Jones and Sally were mainstays in the sophomore defense. Collins, playing center, was able to be in most of the plays and showed that he was the most valuable line man that the sophs had.

The Freshman-Junior-Senior game was hard fought until the last quarter. At the beginning of the second half there seemed to be perceptible break in the defense of the Fresh line, but a rally held it until the last quarter, when the whole team seemed to suffer under the strain of the plunges, bucks and other stuff which the Junior-Seniors persisted in handing out to them.

It was in the last half of the game that the thrills of the afternoon were for the fans began. A pass Stovall to Morris, netted 25 yards to the Freshmen. Callahan made a 30-yard run for the Junior-Seniors following that, and the game seemed to be a defensive one from that time on. Anthony got in a gain of 15 yards and Callahan took the ball over for the first score after a succession of line bucks which the Freshmen related to the last. Callahan failed to kick goal. End of half. Score, Junior-Seniors 6, Sophs 0.

In the last quarter, the game was a succession of passes and bucks interspersed by several end runs for substantial gains. Logan made a 15-yard run under left end. Anthony fumbled and lost 4 yards. Mitchell kicked to Allen who returned 12 yards. Logan kicked 15 yards. Senior ball. Westbrook gained 10 yards by a buck. Anthony went the remaining distance for a touchdown. Callahan kicked goal. Score, Junior-Seniors 13, Sophs 0. Mitchell returned the kick off 30 yards. A forward pass, Logan to Durham, netted 25 more yards. Callahan took the ball over the line for a touchdown around right end. Callahan kicked goal.

NEWBY NOT SERIOUSLY INJURED SATURDAY

Princeton, November 6.—Dick Newby, who was laid out in the third quarter of the Princeton-Swarthmore game in which the Princeton subs easily conquered, apparently was not injured as seriously as his teammates feared at the time. Newby, who starred in defeating Swarthmore, is about the campus again, and will be ready to work in the Harvard game at Cambridge if Coach Bill Roper has need of him in the backfield.

The Tiger squad is now concentrating for the great tests of the year. Undelected so far and with a famous victory over the Chicago Maroons to their credit, the members of the team are now more confident in looking forward to the Harvard and Yale battles, the only games remaining on the program.

What Is the Matter With Football?

What should be done? What do the coaches who dominate the sport think about it?
All is not well with America's greatest amateur sport. Coaches, players, college authorities and rooters alike have been worrying over it for years. A climax is coming. Professionalism is threatening football. Various new rules have been tried. How are the newest rules working out? Should the game be made safer?
To give its readers a bird's-eye view of the present critical situation and the remedies suggested, The Constitution has arranged for a series of articles by the twelve foremost American football coaches.

The first article is by Major C. D. Daly, West Point coach, in his day at Harvard and West Point the greatest of quarterbacks. Major Daly is also president of the newly organized Football Coaches' association. His article will appear Wednesday.
Other articles will follow shortly by "Hurricane" Yost, of Michigan; Buck O'Neill, of Columbia; Alonzo Stagg, of Chicago, and other famous coaches from all parts of the continent.
Read them all in The Constitution and you will keep posted on the inside of football.

Champion Walker Has Good Chance Public Losing Interest in the Ring

BY NORMAN E. BROWN
The king is dead!
How long will the king live? As it should be Jack Britton, welterweight champion, experienced, cunning, brainy, but handicapped by the inroads of age, should succumb at last to youth, aggressiveness and ambition. Fate close Mickey Walker, a mere novice, but possessing the qualities named, to bring about the downfall of the veteran champ. So on Walker's head rests the crown.
As a result Walker now stands in the center of the flistic spotlight. He has wonderful opportunities ahead of him. From a personal standpoint he stands to reap a golden harvest and much fame. From the standpoint of the game he holds in the palm of his hand much of the future of the sport.

Thanks to the popularity of Jack Britton, the welterweight class has not been drawn into the dispute that has engulfed the middleweight, featherweight and bantamweight classes. Britton may have held the title far beyond his time, but while holding it he showed a willingness to fight—to give the public its money's worth and play the game on the level.

Public Loses Interest.
The overnight changes in the bantam class, the petty wrangling of New York promoters and writers over the featherweight crown and the right of Kilbane to wear it and the putrid showing of Johnny Wilson, alleged middleweight king, have caused the public to lose interest in those classes. Indirectly this odium arising from these classes has helped drag the boxing game down to the low level it now holds.

If Walker proves to be a capable champion and elects to fight willingly and without the petty heckling, bickering and four-lushing of many stars of the game, he will only keep the welterweight class in the foreground but will help keep the game from sliding completely to the dogs.

He trots the paths of the other money and publicity-loving kings and plays the public for fish he will only spend the final reckoning.
Walker has shown in his brief career that he is a real fighter. When he first met Jack Britton on July 18, last year, the youngster forced the veteran champion to the limit and while Walker showed many weak points he gave indications that he would demand recognition sooner or later.

REVISION OF DAVIS CUP RULES

New York, November 6.—The "Tennis countries" which have competed in the Davis cup tournament will meet, through their representatives, in London on December 20 at the invitation of the United States Lawn Tennis association to discuss various revisions of the Davis cup regulations and other tournament matters.
The U. S. L. T. A. issued a statement Monday saying that one of the most important proposals will be that which would divide the world into two zones, the American and European. The purpose of preliminary Davis cup rounds. Each nation would ally itself with one zone or the other and a final match would play the champion nation.
The international lawn tennis federation will meet after the Davis cup matters are settled and will discuss playing rules and an international code.

PETRELS WILL PLAY BENNING

BY BILL MORROW.
The city of Columbus will be the scene of another grid battle Saturday, when the Olethorpe Petrels journey over to meet the Camp Benning officers. With the second attack of college boys only a few days off, the townpeople are wondering if this second invasion will be as fierce as the affair of last Saturday when the students of Auburn and Georgia took charge of the town.

The game scheduled for Saturday does not assemble two college eleven to combat, the affair will not be lacking in interest. Camp Benning is preparing for the Petrels and there is every indication that Coach Stein's wards will receive a warm reception at the hands of the officers. Last year the Olethorpe delegation came out of the fray the victors but prospects are none too bright for the Petrels to repeat.

Olethorpe and the camp are in the same boat with one exception. In respect to games won. The officers have one mark in the won column due to their victory over Piedmont college, while the Petrels have yet to taste of the fruits of victory. The Camp Benning officers have experienced hard battles to date and there is no getting around the fact that they have a good team.

Receive Many Penalties.
Olethorpe has lost all of six attempts, the last game going to Trinity college by a one-point after touchdown. In the affair with Trinity, the Petrels were the last to score and the failure to make the point after touchdown kept them from tying the score. The game was hard fought and the Petrels drew quite a few penalties. On several occasions the Petrels were in scoring distance only to be pushed back by the decision of the referee. With the oval on the one-yard line and two downs to gain the distance for an additional six points, the Petrels were accused of holding, and drew a 15-yard penalty.

But four games remain on the Petrel schedule. Following the Camp Benning game, the Petrels will journey to Macon and try their luck against Mercer. On November 25 the victims of Harvard's machine, the University of Florida, will meet the Petrels in Atlanta and the season will close with the Petrels eating their Thanksgiving dinner after the fracas with the University of Chattanooga, in Chattanooga.

CHAMPION VILLA IDENTIFIES HIMSELF

New York, November 6.—In less than one minute, Pancho Villa, the tiny flyweight champion of the United States, convinced a doubting six-foot police sergeant that he was no imposter but a real champion.
Villa was arrested in a traffic jam for driving his manager's flivver without a license. At the station, Pancho, standing barely five feet, and weighing about 110 pounds proclaimed himself not only a prize fighter but a champion.

The sergeant took him to the squad room, produced the gloves and commenced. They went three rounds. Before the first round was over the sergeant was satisfied with the evidence. Having identified himself, Villa was convicted and fined $5 for violating the traffic laws. He offered to give the flivver in lieu of the fine but made no sale.

Mrs. T. T. Williams won the trophy for the low gross with a 93. Mrs. Williams went out in 44 and came in with a 49. She was playing her iron shots like a champion and her putting was up to its usual accuracy.

In the baby or nine-hole flight, Mrs. Ed Byrne carried off the honors with a net 72. Mrs. Byrne has been playing golf but a short while and shows great promise with her irons.

Miss Davis Second.
Miss Henrietta Davis was second in the baby flight with a 73. Mrs. Norma Coolidge played third, Mrs. Welford Blacklock took fourth place, Mrs. Eugene Black snatched fifth, Miss Grace Goldsmith sixth, closely pressed by Mrs. Richard Hardwick who made one stroke over Miss Goldsmith. Mrs. Lee Giffin was decidedly off her game and fell in eighth place, but she will no doubt be heard from today as she plays her best game in match play.

The pairings for today in the 18-hole flight are as follows: Mrs. T. Williams is matched to play Mrs. Charles M. Seiple, Mrs. Williams conceding Mrs. Seiple 14 strokes. Mrs. Charles V. Cornell plays Mrs. Chester Booth Blakeman, conceding Mrs. Blakeman 14 strokes.

Mrs. Henry Clay Burr plays Mrs. J. W. Goldsmith, Jr., Mrs. Burr giving Mrs. Goldsmith 15 strokes. Mrs. Nash Broyles plays Mrs. Clarence Knowles, Mrs. Broyles spotting her opponent 13 strokes.

In the baby or nine-hole flight the pairings for today will be as follows: Mrs. Ed Byrne plays Mrs. Eugene V. Black, Mrs. Norma Coolidge plays Mrs. Welford Blacklock, Mrs. Henrietta Davis plays Mrs. Lee Giffin, Miss Grace Goldsmith plays Mrs. Richard Hardwick.

Match play will start at 9 o'clock this morning and some very close matches are expected in the first and second flights.

The beautiful trophies offered by The Constitution, seven in number, are on display at the Brookhaven Country club.

Bad Breaks Figured in Beatings Handed Georgetown This Year

BY JOHN STATION.
(Tech's Lett End.)
It's Georgetown Saturday, and the crisis in the season for Tech. Three more games remain on the schedule, and Tech is in a bad way. They don't care to know so much. Holy Cross has not been drummed up a national reputation, but they turn out good football teams just the same. Three years ago they licked fair Harvard in one of the most thrilling games of the season. And Harvard used everything she had. Holy Cross and Holy Cross tussle it out each year, and for the last two Harvard has had the slight edge, though it has been very slight.

And from the accounts of the game, here is the way they beat Georgetown. Early in the game, Holy Cross got off a beautiful punt which the Georgetown safety man failed to catch. Holy Cross on his own fifteen-yard line. He fumbled and Holy Cross recovered. They failed to gain through Georgetown's line but on fourth down put a drop-kick through the bars for the first score of the game. Then they set in to play a defensive game keeping the ball in the Hilltoppers' territory most of the time.

In the last quarter, Georgetown opened up with a forward passing attack. The ball in the Hilltoppers' hands. Holy Cross man intercepted one, and ran about seventy yards for a touchdown, and they beat Georgetown 10-0. Georgetown gained much more ground, but two bad breaks, and a good ball game was tossed away.

Well, the freshmen took their first licking last Saturday. It was a tough luck, too, for they gained heavily on the Florida freshmen. The game was played in a mild gale, and our punter, Alvin, was very good. A few minutes before time a decent kick. The Tech "fresh" punts for the afternoon averaged something like twenty yards. Statistics show that they gained over three times as much ground as the Florida freshmen, but lacked the final punch to carry the ball across. By actual count, they were within Florida's five-yard line five different times, and on the one-yard line once, yet they could not push it across.

IT'S ATLANTA'S CALL

It Must Be Answered---

Not by any one organization—
Not by any one group of men—
Not by just a few, while others turn a deaf ear—

But It Must Be Answered By

YOU!

---By every man who loves this city---by every man who feels a tingle of pride in his loyal veins at the mere mention of the word, A-t-l-a-n-t-a.

Every Major, every Captain, every member selected in the big campaign which starts today to increase the membership of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce to 4,000

Must Be in Their Places at Assembly Hall No. 2 This Morning at 9:30 O'Clock

YOU have been especially selected for this work—most of you have volunteered, just as you always do when Atlanta NEEDS you. Don't be a laggard
—a drone—NOW. Measure up, as you have always measured up, to your full duty in every worthy cause.

Every man is expected to be present, ready for duty—and we can use many more. Fifty teams of five men each are needed—250 men—to spend just a few hours each day this week. It is just a week's job. Will you meet with us? BE THERE AT 9:30 A. M.

Plans For the Future

Atlanta's Chamber of Commerce must carry out her splendid development program for Atlanta as just recently outlined. To do it requires $100,000—a total of 4,000 paying members.

This campaign is endorsed and sponsored by—

The three daily newspapers of Atlanta—
The Inter-Civic Council—
The Rotary Club—
The Kiwanis Club—
The Lions' Club—
The Civitan Club—
The Ad. Club—
The Retail Merchants' Association.

The presidents of these organizations form
the directorate for this increased membership drive. They are going to "see this organization through" in this, the most important step in her history.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has been greatly hampered in the past by lack of funds. And while it has done splendid—wonderful—work with what funds it had at its command, its operations have been necessarily limited.

While it has operated under almost a pitiful income of $46,000 a year, the Chamber of Commerce of Portland, Ore., has had at its command nearly $250,000; New Orleans,

$118,000; Memphis more than $100,000—
and many other like cities similar amounts.

But Atlanta's Chamber of Commerce proposes NOW, under a new order of things, not only to continue, as in the past, to function
for Atlanta's great good, but it is to add—

An Industrial Bureau—
A Market Bureau—
A Publicity Department.

These are three vital essentials in Chamber of Commerce work—departments of tremendous importance—departments which will mean, when properly at work, the bringing into Atlanta of thousands—and millions—of dollars in new industries. Each of these departments has been voted and will be given $20,- 000 to $25,000 each.

MEMBERSHIP DUES

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce fixes the dues in multiples of $25, according to the size and rating of the firm. This is equitable and just. Firms should support the Chamber of Commerce proposition in proportion to the good they receive from it.

Only a few of Atlanta's larger corporations and firms are represented by anything like the full memberships they should take. One large concern, however, maintains 50 senior and 25 junior members
—$1,500. But it is the exception. Scores of others should be proportionately represented.

Good Work in the Past

Announcement is just made that largely through the efforts of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce John McE. Bowman's next hotel enterprise is to be in Atlanta. It will be a magnificent hotel to be known as the Atlanta Biltmore, and will contain 600 rooms and baths. William Candler, of this city, and a director of the Chamber of Commerce, who wired the information, is to be vice president of the Biltmore Corporation, operating it. The location will be West Peachtree, Fifth, Sixth and Cypress streets. An apartment house of 100 rooms and suites will adjoin it.

Atlanta's Chamber of Commerce has put Atlanta business firms in touch with outside inquiries where sales have been made, averaging two hundred times per month this year.

It has kept in Atlanta six hundred families, with average income of $3,000 per year, who were connected with firms that had been ordered to leave Atlanta, and would have left except for the Chamber of Commerce intercepting.

It has brought to Atlanta twelve large distributing warehouses, found space for them
and houses for their employees.

The Chamber of Commerce was primarily instrumental in financing two concerns in this city this year, amounting to $470,000.

The Chamber of Commerce provides 120 different clubs, societies, organizations, committees, etc., with a meeting place each month,
space, heat, light, janitor service, etc., free.
The value of this conservatively, at $10 per meeting, is $1,200 per month, or $14,400 per year.

The Chamber of Commerce is in almost daily touch with every county, city and newspaper in the State, talking good will for Atlanta, bringing business to Atlanta, and creating a wholesome co-operation between Atlanta and all of Georgia.

The Chamber of Commerce sends outside of the city yearly 25,000 pieces of attractive literature, designed to help the city and your business.

And Now a Word to the Atlanta Public

Today---Tuesday---these loyal workers will call upon you.
If not today, then tomorrow, or some day this week.

They are busy men---but they are giving their time for the good of Atlanta. Don't hesitate --- don't haggle --- don't argue about the matter. Figure out RIGHT NOW how many memberships your house will take---how many it OUGHT to take, to do your part in the great development the Chamber of Commerce is trying to bring about for Atlanta. It is in your interest.

If they fail to see you---you see them. Send in your applications or phone the Chamber of Commerce that you are ready to enlist.

As Atlanta prospers---you prosper---your house prospers.
There are perhaps two or three---or a half dozen---in your establishment, even though it is not a big one, that should be members of this organization. It will help and broaden them
---give them a wider and better vision of business generally,
and of your business in particular.

So It's Up to You, Also, to Respond---Do It Cheerfully---Wholeheartedly

AND FINALLY

Let All Workers Be at the Chamber of Commerce This
---Tuesday---Morning at 9:30

Fine Arts Club Matinee At Howard Candler Home

When a professional musician is to give a concert, the newspaper announcement of it must more accurately be called publicity. When a musician who is not a professional gives a concert of professional quality, that is distinctly news.

Thus there is a heightened interest in the concert to be given this morning under the auspices of the Fine Arts club at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Candler in Druid Hills. Miss Mildred Delma, a professional singer, is ostensibly to provide the feature of the occasion, but the keener interest, partly because it is personal, lies in the fact that Mr. Candler himself, a business man, will be co-artist with Miss Delma. He will play his own beautiful pipe organ.

Miss Delma, who comes south with an interesting record of costume recitals before the Congressional club in Washington, at the Cavalry ball in honor of General Pershing and other similar noteworthy occasions, will wear a very wonderful costume for the singing of the principal aria in "L'Oracolo," a Spanish costume for some old folks of South America, and a Carmen costume for the "Habanera." A Brahms group will complete her program. Mr. Candler has also selected some Chinese music and an excerpt from "Carmen."

It is interesting to know that Miss Delma is a pupil of Mme. von Feilitzsch, who, by the way, taught Edward Johnson, the sensational tenor, recently of the Chicago opera company, who has been added to the forces of the Metropolitan.

MRS. STEVENS ISSUES MESSAGE TO ATLANTA FEDERATION.

Stresses Obligations Of Women's Organizations

BY LOUISE DOOLEY.

Mrs. T. T. Stevens issues through the press today her first official address to the 15,000 women composing the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, of which federation she was recently elected president. This communication will reach the federated club presidents today by mail also.

Mrs. Stevens emphasizes. Reasonable attention to all of these general projects, in addition to the individual objectives of the 105 federated organizations, leave no opportunity for any Atlanta woman to complain of lack of worth-while outlet for her superfluous energies.

Women, like men, are transacting much of their organization business nowadays at luncheon. Husbands, few of them, go home in the middle of the day unless they are very new, and so friend wife meets her business friends, too, "at the club" for luncheon.

Today, for instance, Mrs. E. H. Goodhart's department of public welfare will lunch at the woman's club. Club women must eat, and it saves time to indulge this grim necessity in good company and to an obligate of club ways and means.

Tech Woman's Club Holds Meeting.

The Georgia Tech Woman's club held its November meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Field, R. P. D. No. 1, Decatur, on Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Field was assisted by the following hostesses: Mesdames D. L. Stoney, J. L. Daniel, H. K. Fuller, J. B. Edwards, R. S. Howell, K. F. Zerfoss, W. M. McLaurine, and Miss Ruth Payden.

All members of the club and their husbands were invited to meet out of doors, where they were entertained with games. A large number of the club enjoyed Mrs. Field's hospitality.

Dean Johnston To Lecture on Passion Play

An enjoyable event of Thursday evening will be a lecture on "The Passion Play and Oberammergau" by Dean T. H. Johnston, of St. Philip's cathedral. The lecture will be given at 8 o'clock in the evening at the cathedral for the benefit of the Ladies' aid.

Special interest centers in the fact that Dean Johnston was a visitor at Oberammergau this summer and will relate his personal experiences and impressions. As he is a scholar and a profound student of human nature, his account of the Passion Play and the quaint old German town should be both instructive and enjoyable.

Admission will be 50 cents.

Mrs. Davis to Attend National "Y" Meeting.

Mrs. Archibald H. Davis, president of the Y. W. C. A., leaves for New York on November 13 to attend a meeting of the national Y. W. C. A. commission on new membership basis, which commission is one of the most important in the present program of the national body.

Besides her commission work with the national body and her presidency of the local association, Mrs. Davis is vice chairman of the commission and Mrs. Donald Day, of Syracuse, N. Y., is chairman.

In defining the national board of the Y. W. C. A. and its close relationship with local associations, Mrs. Davis speaks as follows: "The national board of the Y. W. C. A. is a federation of all the local Y. W. C. A.'s, and was created to do the things which a local association has neither time nor money to do for itself. As for instance, the national training school where secretaries learn not only the technique of the profession, but also the underlying principles of practical Christianity, The Woman's Press, a publishing house which prints all the technical material needed by the association at large and publishes books of pertinent character. The aim of the Woman's Press is to be an income-producing department."

"The Grace Dodge hotel in Washington, built by the national board, at the request of the government, for women living in or visiting Washington, is being run as an experiment to demonstrate certain standards in hotel management, which, if successful, may serve as models for hotel keepers throughout the United States."

"But the chief function of the national board is to assist in the work of the women at headquarters as sitting with their ears to the ground trying to hear what is coming next and to be ready with all answers to the pressing questions which confront the local associations. The national board acts as the servant, the teacher and the agent of the local associations."

"Servant in that it passes on the results of its study and research in new and better methods for carrying on work among the foreign born, the colored girls, the student body, in other countries and so on; and is agent for the whole association in its relation to the United States government and to the forty-eight organizations like the Y. M. C. A., Travelers' Aid, Federal Council of Churches and so forth; agent also for the administration of work in other countries which is supported by the members of local associations."

"The association in the United States is part of a world's movement, and a member of the 'World's Y. W. C. A.' and there are many things for which a single group must represent and act as agent for the whole constituency."

Mrs. E. K. Large, chairman of the Chinese booth, has completed her plans and secured the decorations that will make the booth where the chop suey is served to be served one of Oriental beauty. The Near East, with Mrs. W. R. Prescott, chairman, will display native pottery, rugs, lace, and a native costume of the Armenians. S. Y. Philoposian, an Armenian, will be in the booth to explain the exhibit and talk with visitors about the sorrows of his native country.

DRESS By Anne Rittenhouse

Black Velvet Rises to Greater Power Than Ever in Evening Gowns for Formal and Informal Occasions Because the Fabric Lends Itself to the Draping Drapery.

Bath cotton and silk velvet have been on all sides this winter. The former is used for blouses and morning frocks, for negligees and sport coats. The latter is chosen for formal dresses. The Italian wrinkled velvet, introduced by Babani & Fortune, in Paris, are well liked.

The average woman has a deep-rooted conviction that a black velvet evening gown erases the wrinkles from her brow and mind, even though it erases when she wears it. If she is not given to going to evening parties, she at least wants an afternoon frock that puts her in readiness for whatever gaieties occur in her life before the lamps are lit.

Satin has held the center of the social limelight for several years, but for some curious reason it slipped away over night, stealing away from the front lines of fashion when no one was looking. The public suddenly discovered, in discussing new gowns with the dressmakers, that it was not offered.

The lesser dressmakers continue to use it, and women who do not pretend to keep up with the visting and turning of fashion continue to demand it.

The truth is that velvet and crepe de chine have taken its place, not forgetting brocade. The latter has more power, not in the stiff metallic weave of other days, but in supple Chinese weaves which have no more solid substance than chiffon.

The new silk velvets are equally soft. That is why they are chosen for draped gowns with multiple bias folds of drapery. They diminish the lines of the figure so that even the thickly set take on new hope in the belief that this particular fabric will not reveal their measurements to the public.

The gown in the sketch is built of one of these new velvets and its importance lies in the fact that it serves for every occasion. It is not relegated to the closets of the rich. It pleases a woman of moderate means and it will continue to serve her, after slight alteration, when its first glamour is gone.

The drapery at one hip is caught by a buckle in the form of a rosette, set with a small ruby stone; there is a broad cape that hangs like classic alteration, when its first glamour is gone.

THIS PUFF WILL BE DEAR TO EVERY WOMAN'S HEART

What could be dearer than a heart shaped powder puff? The whole point of the thing—that is the point of the heart—is to make powdering around your eyes a simplified art.

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna K. Forbes

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Cherie—Sweet fruit is more fattening than the acid variety, so you can form your judgment accordingly.

C. B. C.—The woman at 20 years, 5 feet, 1 1/2 inches, should weigh 115 pounds, and the man who is 41, 5 feet, 9 3/4 inches, should weigh 180 pounds.

Tarzan—Most men would be pleased to have your heavy growth of hair since it indicates great physical endurance. As you come by this naturally do not let the condition embarrass you, but try to get rid of it, other than giving yourself a clean shave each morning.

Peggy—You need a hair tonic and the scalp should have a daily stimulating massage with the finger tips. Send me a self-addressed envelope for the tonic formula.

Alice G.—You are a little too fat. Wear shoes with round toes, low heels and made on a last which allows the large toe to lie straight. This is the first thing to do in curing a bunion. A good chiropodist can treat this trouble for you.

Embarrassed Dancer with your girl friend till you are more sure of yourself or dance alone till you do it better.

Mrs. G. M.—The blotchy skin and blackheads show diseased conditions of the blood. Diet and continue your outdoor exercise and skin treatments.

J. B.—If curls are becoming wear, then even though you are 18. Blond hair, in order to keep its lustre, needs plenty of sunning, especially while drying after a shampoo.

Mrs. P.—If the baby's hair is thick and healthy do nothing to it other than keep it clean by means of shampoos with castile soap or coconut oil and water; in addition to this massage the scalp gently with the finger tips each day. The massage is strengthening and will make the hair as rich and thick as desired. Having blue eyes she will look very well in blue especially if combined with yellow. Brown and dark browns will bring out the red brown lights in her hair.

Mabel—Sage and sulphur is a most harmless stain for brown hair. However if you are just beginning to turn, try what effect treatments with tonics and a massage will have.

Tomorrow—Weekly Hand Treatments.

That would do the work for you. Most housewives do not fully appreciate the amount of time that may be saved by the old-time device of soaking dishes. If you take time now to leave a cooler, economy to be achieved through the use of the dish-washer in a family of less than eight. And that is what experts in household economics usually agree. The dish-washing machine now on the market are a boon to large families, boarding houses and institutions rather than to the average family. For there is no machine that will stack the dishes, remove the refuse and rinse them. Nor will any machine scrape and scour cooking utensils. And in a small family actual washing of the dishes does not take a great deal of time.

Your problem then consists largely in working out an efficient system of accomplishing the old drudgery rather than in having a washing machine.

Let's Join Together for Georgia and America. Platform of

Max H. Wilensky

Non-Partisan Candidate for U. S. Congress, Fifth District of Georgia

In Election, Nov. 7th, 1922

I shall serve with honest purpose. First, I shall vigorously defend the cause of individual liberty and the inalienable civil rights guaranteed to every citizen by our Constitution.

As a Southerner, I'll help the colored people to self respect, but oppose false notions of equality.

Second, if elected to Congress I shall exert my best efforts on a prepared extensive program for more of wholesome recreation through the entire South and especially in Georgia, whereby all those rejuvenating influences in the various arts of music, the theater, folk dancing, etc., shall be extended to our rural communities so as to relieve the loneliness of farm life and lessen the exodus from our farms to the city.

Third, I believe in the restriction of immigration to the point of national assimilation.

Fourth, seeking as I do every wholesome means of increasing the recreational facilities of our people, I believe I can be trusted when I say that the Eighteenth Amendment on Prohibition should be always effective for better citizenship. There is no good in "corn lickin'" whiskey, and even for beer a taste has to be cultivated, but I do believe that the liquor grapes grown over the valleys should be made into good, unfermented wine, to delight the heart of the laborer.

Fifth, I shall strive, with the co-operation of the Federal and State Governments, to arouse the farmer of our district from lethargy into independence and shall encourage a movement to increase the breeding of live stock in Georgia.

I want the Farmer-Labor Vote.

Sixth, a carefully prepared program, entitled A Practical Plan of Industrial Representation, will be advocated by me as a solution of the difficulties between capital and labor. This plan is known as the House and Senate Plan of Industrial representation and is in actual use in many of the successful industries of our country. I believe labor unions have done far more good to improve working conditions than harm to our country from their faults.

Seventh, I am pledged by the best in my nature to the rights of our children. I favor a Child Labor Bill that can withstand the test of Constitutionality. I am opposed to a compulsory education law for children between ages of 10 and 15. It works a terrible hardship upon the poor families who must have the help of their children for the family income. But I favor it if the state government will pension or assist these families who cannot submit without their children's help.

Eighth, I favor the development of a deep spirit of Voluntary Mutual Good Will between the public and big business and its employees. I shall labor earnestly to foster every effort for constructive production in business that will further develop all the national resources of our country. It is time to commune with our fellows. I would say with the spirit of the prophet Isaiah, "Woe unto them that lay field to field till there be none left that they may be placed as if alone in the midst of the earth." Business efficiency must not destroy the love of our fellows and the fine grain of the human spirit among the workers in American industry.

Ninth, I am opposed to the cancellation of Europe's War Debt to us where it will not mean a gift of so much money to intelligent nations to start other wars.

Tenth, I oppose entrance at present of the U. S. into a League of Nations. America is composed of a citizenship of all nationalities. Let Europe first put its own house in order by forming a United States of Europe. In the meantime, we can help with our applied sympathy to alleviate misery and aid the constructive agricultural and industrial development in Europe, but America build a stronger association of all North and South American Countries in a Pan-American Union.

Eleventh, no money can compensate for the readiness to give one's life to our country. Let us compensate our war veterans with a bonus with much more willingness than industry rewards its employees with a bonus for loyalty, but in so doing avoid any encouragement to an attitude of militarism or to making the bonus an incentive to further wars or the desire for wars.

Twelfth, no nation can live without a strong religious spirit that is not intolerant, and I favor an International Religious Conference for Mutual Good Will and Appreciation of all peoples, to constructively raise the level of Democracy throughout the World.

Help me to raise the profession of Public Service. Let everyone vote on November 7th. I want to represent all of you. Faithfully, Max H. Wilensky.

AT WOMAN'S WINDOW

BY W. L. GEORGE

TELEPHONE MANNERS

There is something about a telephone which brings out the worst in men, and something much worse in women. Women are ruder than men on the telephone because the men are hampered by the feminine voice at the exchange, while the mere feminine voice drives the telephoning lady into frenzy. The telephone itself is at fault. One may have to wait; when one has waited and at last the person one wants has been found, one may be cut off; people tell you to speak up, when you do speak up they say don't shout! There is something maddening about the instrument. But there are other tendencies which come out of the black depths of human nature; the telephone favors them.

When you want to say something disagreeable, how convenient is the telephone! You don't want to write a letter that can be shown. You don't want to tell her what you think of her face to face. But you can tell her over the telephone. There you can bowl and belittle, even if your friend is of a larger size. You are safe. You can be abusive. To me, there is something very undignified in a row over the telephone; one's position is too favorable so long as one keeps hold of the conversation. The only way to handle the telephone is to use it for listening rather than for talking. Too many women precipitate themselves upon the wire as hounds do upon the fox. They put questions, but do not wait for answers. Upon these unbearable answers they hurl comments, more questions, until the maddened male says that he'll come round and talk. Darkness and silence was recommended to Paris during the air raids of the war. Be silent while you may is an equally good motto for using the telephone.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE GREAT EQUALIZER. "Put off thy cares with thy clothes. So shall thy rest strengthen thy labor and, so shall thy labor sweeten thy rest."—Quarles.

Isn't sleep a delicious thing? Something brought to my mind the other day an occasion when I got frightened. Everything went wrong on a trip we were making. We had eleven hours hard traveling instead of the five we expected, and arrived at 7 o'clock, in that completely exhausted, edgy state of mind when you tip over and drop everything you touch from sheer nervous weariness, and then feel as if you should weep because you have to pick them things up. But the thing that stands out the most about the adventure was the sleep I had that night. A comfortable bed awaited me and oh! the luxury of relaxing aching muscles between cool sheets. Oh, the deliciousness of the drowsiness that almost instantly drifted over me; and oh, the heavenly sense of "sweet" upon that an 11-hour sleep brought me!

A Fine Quality of Sleep. You can't have a sleep like that unless you get very tired physically and not too tired mentally.

The quality of sleep you get then is as different from ordinary sleep as the savor of food when you are thoroughly hungry is from its savor when you come to a meal with a peckish appetite.

The sleep of a laboring man is sweet, said King Solomon, and I wondered how he knew. He might have surmised that a laboring man would sleep better than a thinker like himself, but he could not have used that wonderful adjective "sweet" unless he had had some personal vital experience. Maybe among the other things he tried out when he gave his mind to work and search out wisdom concerning all things that are done under the sun, he tried living the life of a laboring man in ignorance for a little while. Who knows? I wouldn't put it by him, for he certainly was right.

Wash Day. Time can be saved if the clothes are sorted as they are removed from the line, keeping handkerchiefs, towels, etc., together, ready to be sprinkled and folded.

How to Grow Bulbs

By Mrs. E. P. Crenshaw. The Crocus. The earliest blooms among the bulbs are the crocuses which come before the "swallow dars, and takes the winds of March with beauty."

The ancients used their thread or filament to make saffron dye. In Lalla Rookh Thomas Moore refers to the bees busy in the saffron beds which means the crocus beds.

The chief sentiments they inspire is admiration for their beauty and surprise that any flower could dare venture out while the snow is still scurrying through the sky.

These accommodating flowers can be massed in the grass on the lawn where they disturb nothing or they can be forced indoors in the same way we force narcissi, in moderate-ly rich dirt. Plant a half dozen in an average sized pot.

If planted on the lawn the only thing they ask is not to mow the lawn until their leaves are dead.

The cost of planting is very small compared with the pleasure they give. The bulbs cost only 25 cents per dozen and when once planted, they are a permanent addition to the lawn and every spring they will greet you with good cheer long before you have laid aside your overcoat or turned off the heat in the living room.

In the Sick Room. The ticking of a watch will often seriously disturb a patient and this can be avoided by inverting a glass tumbler over the watch. The time can be seen plainly through the glass, but the sound will be eliminated.

The Riddle of the Night

BY T. W. HANSEW

Next Week, "Man to Man"
By Jackson Gregory

"With a sudden awakening from the sort of stupor which up till now had mastered her, she flung back: 'I never was nearer to Glover cottage last night than I am at this minute, and if you say that I met you, that I spoke to you, that I even saw you, or that you saw me after Ailsa Lorne led me out of the drawing room at Clavering Close when you threatened the Count de Louisian's life, you are saying what is absolutely untrue.'"

"Kathie!"

"I repeat it, utterly and absolutely untrue."

"Good God! Do you accuse me of lying?"

"There must be some horrible mistake. Someone impersonated me for some awful purpose. But, in any case, what took you to Glover cottage?"

"I had no idea of going there at first," he answered. "I couldn't remain quiet after you had left and Narkom's men had bundled De Louisian out of the house; my head seemed full of fire. I sneaked down the back stairs and let myself out. I walked about the common for heaven knows how long before I turned round and the sound of someone coming to me through the mist, and the next thing I knew I 'bumped' smack into that person, and found it to be my stepmother. She seemed to search for me, she said. She felt anxious, distressed, afraid, so she said, 'that I would do something desperate, and went to my room to talk with me. When she found it empty she jumped to the conclusion that I had gone out for the purpose of following De Louisian. She would leave me until I promised her on my word of honor that I would make no effort to find him. When I did that she was satisfied and went back home.'"

"I suppose it was her speaking of you that put the idea into my head," Geoff went on, "and impelled me to walk over to the place where we had once been so happy. That's why I went. That's how I came to meet you there."

"You did not meet me there!" she flung back, indignantly. "Really, this is past a jest!"

"A jest? You think I'm likely to jest over it? A thing that threatens the life of the girl I love! In the name of heaven, Kathie, put an end to this nonsense! Say I murdered him, but for God's sake don't say I jest with you when I tell you what I really saw and did. I'm here merely to show you how much I love you—how ready I am to fight the whole world for you. Come back into my arms and let me tell you what I want to tell, dear. They shall not touch you; they shall not lift a finger to harm you, say one single word against you, and God help the first that tries it, that's all!"

"That's how I love you. Better today than I have ever loved you in all the days that were—better than I shall ever love anything in all the days that are to be. I don't care if you are red with blood of a hundred men, you are the girl I love—the girl I mean to marry—the girl I'm going to stand up and fight for as long as there's breath left in my body!"

"Marry—marry?" Her voice struck through his even before he had finished speaking, and there was a sting in it that bit. "Do you think for one instant that I would marry you when you make such a charge as that against me? I'd no more marry you than I would cut off my right hand."

"Kathie darling!"

"No, no, don't—please don't! It would be wicked to touch me when I am suffering so much. I want to get back to my room. Please do not follow me; please stay where you are. I won't say a word to anybody. I promise you I won't. I'll try to hear it; I'll try to forget it. Goodbye," and she went across the drawbridge to the darkening gardens, and was gone.

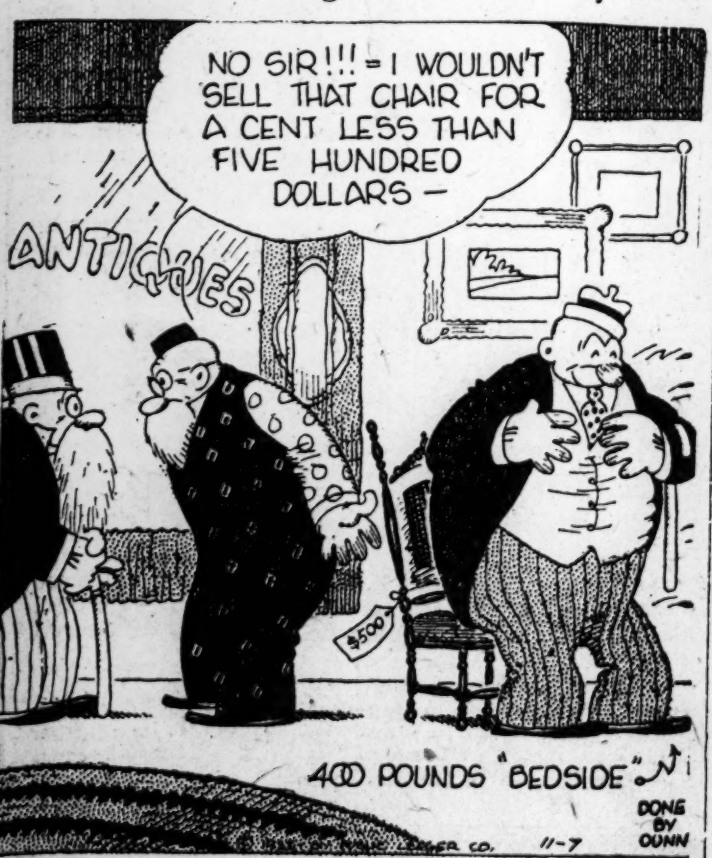

For a minute the man made neither movement nor sound till of a sudden there came something so totally unexpected as to cause him to literally jump. Some one had given a none-to-perfect representation of a muffled sneeze.

"Who's there? Who are you?" he cried in an excited whisper. But no body answered.

He fumbled in his pocket, fished out his matchbox, and struck a vesta. The glimmering light showed him the gap in the floor and the slab laid back on its hinges, with the way to the stone staircase in full view. And in the very instant he made this discovery there rolled up from that gap the sound of somebody running away.

In a sort of panic round Clavering made a dash for the trap, and was through it and down the stone steps in almost no time. Nobody in sight. He called, but nobody answered. He fumbled with the box to get another match when he heard movement behind him and flashed round

"Yes," said Geoffrey, pausing halfway up the staircase and caught by the artfulness of this apparently artless question. "Know two other men. Why?"

"Quite so, quite so! Very kind and very thoughtful," he said composedly. "I always prefer the second story of a building. So if there are any rooms vacant upon the second floor—"

"Only one, sir, and it's the least comfortable one in the house. I'm afraid, being next to that accident—"

Cleek glanced at the footman out of the tail of his eye.

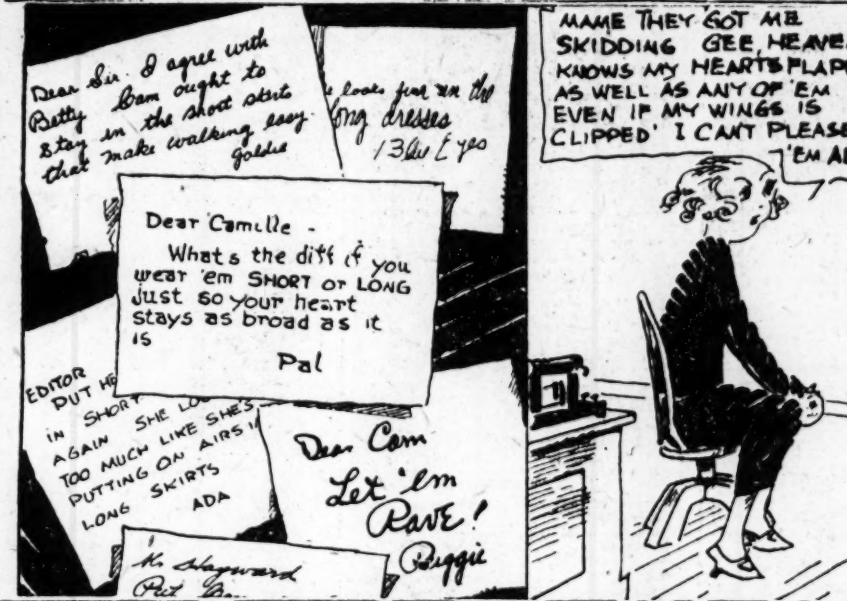

Livery, dark bottle-green—almost black; would pass for black in any thing but a brilliant light. Waistcoat, narrow black and yellow stripes. Cards, no silver buttons.

"I'm a very sound sleeper and the room's on the second floor; that's the main thing," Cleek said offhandily. "So you may show me to it at once."

"Very good, sir; this way. If you please, sir," the footman replied, and forthwith led him to the room in question.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All the Trains

WHEN THE SKIPPER STARTED OUT TO GET THOSE SEVEN VOTES TO TOONERVILLE BEFORE THE POLLS CLOSED NOBODY DREAMED HE COULD MAKE IT. BUT WITH ED WORTLE ON TOP HOLDING THE TROLLEY ON THERE WAS NO STOPPING FOR LOST HATS, UMBRELLAS OR EVEN THE CAR STOVE PIPE. WHEN THE CAR ARRIVED MOST OF THE PASSENGERS HAD TO BE LIFTED OUT AND THE TRIP WILL ALWAYS BE REFERRED TO AS THE "SKIPPER'S POLITICAL SHAKEUP."

Speculators Drive Market, Unsettled Over War, Down

Uncertainty Over Today's Election Figures in Trading—Erie Under Pressure at Close.

New York, November 6.—Speculators for the decline, finding the stock market in a weakened technical position as a result of the rapid advance of last Thursday and Friday, today took advantage of the unfavorable Near Eastern news and the unwillingness of traders to carry stock over the holiday, forcing down prices 1 to 3 points.

Uncertainties regarding the outcome of tomorrow's elections and the disposition of traders to await more definite developments in Turkey before extending their commitments resulted in considerably less activity, total sales aggregating only 704,000 shares, as against the million share average of the last few weeks.

The reactionary movement extended over most of the list, but pressure was concentrated in the last hour on the Erie issues on a report of a strike of employees of the Pennsylvania Coal company, one of its principal coal properties. Erie first preferred dropped 3 points, the common yielding 23.8 and the second preferred, 21.4. Other low priced rails reacted in sympathy, losses of large fractions to 2 points taking place in St. Paul, Rock Island, Missouri Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and New Haven.

Announcement by the American Railway association that the demand for traffic facilities had caused the greatest car shortage in history failed to check the decline in the standard rail shares, losses of a point or more being sustained by Reading, Atlantic Coast Line, Chesapeake and Ohio, Great Northern, preferred, Lake Erie and Western preferred and Union Pacific.

There were a few notable exceptions to the downward trend. Chain store shares were bid up in spirited fashion on reports of better business and possible extra dividend disbursements. Woolworth crossed double, closing at 104 1/2, a net gain of 17 points on the day. Kresge was pushed up 7 1/2, closing at 182, and May Department stores established a new high at 107 1/2, a net gain of 17 points on the day. Kresge was pushed up 7 1/2, closing at 182, and May Department stores established a new high at 107 1/2, a net gain of 17 points on the day.

Copper shares were strong in early dealings but forfeited most of their gains in the final reaction. A slight stiffening of copper prices was noted as a result of the large volume of metal bought for domestic shipment in the last few days.

Profit taking and short selling in the oil shares caused some substantial recessions. Mexican Petroleum dropping nearly 3 points, and losses of 1 to 2 being sustained by Standard Oil of New Jersey, Royal Dutch and General Amstar. Stocks offered better resistance to pressure, most of them yielding only fractionally. Baldwin and Strobaker each lost over 1 1/4 points.

Call money opened at 5 per cent and then advanced to 5 1/2, where it closed. The time money rate held at 2 per cent with comparative little business being transacted. Only a relatively small amount of new commercial paper is coming into the market, the rates for which are unchanged.

Seriousness of the Near Eastern situation was reflected in the heaviness of foreign exchange rates. French francs and German marks dropping to new low levels for the year. Demand sterling also reacted more than one cent to 44 1/2, a large volume of grain and cotton bills being contributing factors.

Pressure on Erie Features Bonds

Threat of Coal Strike Held Responsible—War News Weakens Foreign Issues.

New York, November 6.—Reactions of 3 to 6 points in the Erie railroad issues, in response to heavy liquidation in the final hour, was the outstanding development in today's bond market, the price tendency in which was mainly downward. Reports of a strike of employees in the Pennsylvania coal company, one of the chief Erie coal properties, was the only apparent reason for the setback in these issues which accompanied the slump in stock prices.

Erie Convertible 4s, series B, were the hardest hit, dropping 6 points, while the series A and the general 5s 1/2 points. The series B was not far behind with losses of 5 1/2 points. The series A and the general 5s 1/2 points. The series B was not far behind with losses of 5 1/2 points. The series A and the general 5s 1/2 points. The series B was not far behind with losses of 5 1/2 points.

Foreign bonds yielded under the depressing influence of the belligerent news from Turkey, most of the European issues selling at new low levels on the movement. French 7 1/2s and 8s, Belgian 7 1/2s and 8s, Italian 6s, Swiss 6s, Lyons 6s, Seine 7s, Queensland 6s, Uruguay 6s, Zurich 6s, and Prague 7 1/2s all closed to 1 1/2 points below Saturday's final prices.

Liggett & Myers 5s were the weakest spot in the industrial divisions dropping 2 1/2 points, while Cuba C&O 5s and warrants, dropped 2 points each. Eastern Cuba Sugar 7 1/2s, which recently yielded 6 points on dissolution of the offering syndicate, fell back another point today.

There were a few exceptions, however, to the downward trend. Chile Copper 7s were a notable gainer, rising nearly 4 points. Cerro de Pasco 8s and Julius Kayser 7s each climbed one. The railroad list also furnished a few strong spots, particularly Southern Railway, St. Louis division 4s, and Toledo, St. Louis and Western 4s, each up about 2 points.

United States government bonds reacted with the rest of the list although the first Liberty 4s, originally inactive, sold 60 cents on $100 above their last quoted price. The second 4s dropped 10 cents and the 4 1/4 series rose to 90 cents below Saturday's final figures.

Total sales, par value, were $16,024,000. The principal offerings today were the $18,000,000 issue of 20-year 7 per cent Chilean government bonds offered at 90 1/2 and the $8,805,000 issue of 20-year 5 per cent first and refunding mortgage bonds of the Louisville Gas & Electric company, offered at 91 1/2 to yield 5.60 per cent.

Fear of War in Near East Affects the Cotton Market

Strong Demand Absorbs Most of Reaction—Steadiness in Liverpool Felt in New York.

Table with 4 columns: Date, Open, High, Low, Close. Rows for Dec, Jan, Feb, Mar, Apr, May, Jun, Jul, Aug, Sep, Oct, Nov.

New York, November 6.—Early declines in the cotton market appeared to be promoted by renewed nervousness over political conditions in the Near East, but were followed by rallies on continued bullish reports from foreign general realizing or liquidation. Reactionary sentiment, based upon the extent and rapidity of recent advances, appeared to be promoted by the unsettled ruling in the foreign exchange rates, and the less favorable political news from the Near East. Liverpool, however, showed no special nervousness over the political situation, and the selling here appeared to be quite readily absorbed by trade buying, fresh commission house demand, and orders within a scale down. This demand proved sufficient to steady the market around 24.82 for January and 24.60 for March or about 20 to 25 points lower on the general list and the market was firmer during the afternoon. On the bullish character of the spot prices which were received here from both eastern and western sections of the belt. According to these reports, Japanese interest was in the southwest, while the basis was generally firm and higher, and it was also reported that both Japanese and continental interest and buying orders around the local ring. Covering by early sellers helped the advance which carried January up to 25.18 and March to 24.35 or back to just about the closing quotations of last week. Port receipts today 40,040. T. S. port stocks, 1,125,965. Export today 18,287, making 1,548,553 so far this season.

NEW YORK SPOTS. New York, November 6.—Spot cotton quiet; middling, 25.50.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON RALLIES AFTER SLUMP

New Orleans, November 6.—While moderately wide reactions from the advance featured a good part of the session in cotton today, the tone was very steady in the late trading and at one time the active positions were back within 5 to 8 points of the closing level of Saturday while the close itself showed no loss on the day of but 5 to 19 points. At one time the market showed losses of 37 to 43 points, December traded as low as 24.52, came back to 24.70 and closed at 24.60. The volume of business throughout the day was very heavy. The opening was lower under general selling, much liquidation coming from the long side while the selling was stimulated by an unfavorable opinion of foreign political news. As the day progressed a great deal of liquidation came from traders who wanted to even up over the holiday tomorrow and the census bureau report on spinning to be issued on the 10th.

Foreign Exchange Shows Weakness as Traders Watch European Cables

Constitution's Financial Correspondent.

New York, November 6.—Today's stock market was irregular and less active, a typical pre-election market, where doubt exists regarding the outcome in such states as New York, New Jersey, Ohio. Besides there was decided weakness in all foreign exchange. Around 2 o'clock wires were down 9 points under the opening and 22 under Saturday's closing to a new low level for the year, with marks at 1 7-16 one hundredths of a cent, a low record for all time.

Rubber shares were strong on advances in tire prices. Stocks of mail order houses had a big advance on rumors of a large holiday trade and stock dividends. Woolworth made a new high record with an advance by noon of 15 points.

In view of the movement of foreign exchange much interest was shown here today in London cables quoting Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank, on France.

opening Wednesday. Opinion was not as bullish concerning ginning as it was last week when the trade appeared to be looking for under 2,000,000 bales as the output to the first of November. Comment today indicated that many traders entertained expectations ranging from 2,000,000 up to 2,500,000 bales.

Lowest prices were reached shortly after the middle of the morning. After that the tone was steadier on persistent reports from the interior that spots were refusing to follow the decline. These reports had marked effect in the late trading when shorts covered in a large way. Locally, spots were quoted 25 points up, which raised middling to 24.75.

In view of the movement of foreign exchange much interest was shown here in today's London cables quoting Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank, on France.

For some reason or other the advertisements in the morning papers announcing the offering of $18,000,000 of bonds outside of the country 100 years ago there has never been a case of default or delay in payment of interest or principal.

Foreign exchange had a break as the opening on the new developments in the Turkish situation and on conditions in Germany. Exchange on England was down 1-8 or a point and breaks of from two to 6 points occurred in exchange on France, Italy, Switzerland and other countries.

Spinning and Weaving in the South

OVER half the capital invested in the nation's cotton mills is in the Southern States. This region, usually supposed to be interested only in raising cotton, has grown to be a great manufacturing section where half of the cotton spinning and weaving of the country is concentrated.

An illustration of the South's position in this industry in 1920 is shown by the following:

The South The United States

Active spindles... 15,653,000 32,446,000

Active looms... 292,000 692,000

Cotton consumed... 1,508,000 2,475,000 lbs.

The progress in this fundamental industry serves as another example of the remarkable stability of the South which has made the securities of prosperous municipalities, corporations and public utilities attractive to the investing public.

An interesting survey of Southern conditions is contained in our Booklet C which will be sent upon request
